

INVESTIGATE INNOVATE IMPACT
 UC IRVINE | SCHOOL of SOCIAL SCIENCES
where I make a difference

The School of Social Sciences is UC Irvine's largest academic unit with more than 7,000 undergraduate and graduate students and 138 faculty, ten of whom belong to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and National Academy of Science. Nationally ranked degree programs in anthropology, Chicano/Latino studies, cognitive sciences, economics, international studies, logic and philosophy of science, political science, and sociology prepare students with a thorough understanding of the human world and major social sciences issues that impact our daily lives. The school's more than 31,000 alumni can be found making a difference everyday in boardrooms, classrooms, law offices and non-profit organizations around the world.

Departments

- Anthropology
- Chicano/Latino Studies
- Cognitive Sciences
- Economics
- Logic & Philosophy of Science
- Political Science
- Sociology

Research Centers

- Center for Asian Studies
- Center for Citizen Peacebuilding
- Center for Cognitive Neuroscience
- Center for Demographic & Social Analysis
- Center for Ethnography
- Center for Research on Immigration, Population & Public Policy
- Center for Research on International & Global Studies
- Center for the Study of Democracy
- Center for Global Peace & Conflict Studies
- Institute for Mathematical Behavioral Sciences
- Institute for Money, Technology & Financial Inclusion
- Interdisciplinary Center for the Scientific Study of Ethics & Morality

Community Outreach Programs

- Global Connect
- HABLA
- Jumpstart
- Olive Tree Initiative

Welcome Ceremony

Opening Message

Chancellor Michael V. Drake, M.D.

Remarks

Vice Chancellor and Provost

Michael Gottfredson

Remarks

Vice Chancellor, Administrative & Business Services

Wendell Brase

Social Sciences Message

Dean Barbara Doshier

Social Ecology Message

Dean Valerie Jenness

Ribbon Cutting

Reception, poster displays, lab demonstrations and informal building tours following program

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL ECOLOGY
 UNIVERSITY of CALIFORNIA • IRVINE
 Discover • Engage • Transform

The School of Social Ecology is dedicated to interdisciplinary, problem-driven scholarship, teaching, and outreach in the public's interest. Social Ecology's unique focus and expertise has made it a leader in applying basic theory and empirical research to address complex societal problems. Since 1970, Social Ecology has grown from a few dozen students to nearly 2,000, with over 18,000 graduates working in fields as disparate as health care, human services, planning and law enforcement. The school is made up of three nationally ranked departments and offers five undergraduate degrees, five undergraduate minors, three master's degrees and five doctoral degrees.

Departments

- Criminology, Law and Society
- Planning, Policy and Design
- Psychology and Social Behavior

Research Centers

- Center for Evidence-Based Corrections
- Center for Community Development Studies
- Center in Law, Society and Culture
- Center for Organizational Research
- Community Outreach Partnership Center
- Center for Psychology and Law
- Center for Unconventional Security Affairs
- Newkirk Center for Science and Society
- Social Ecology Research Center

Community Outreach Programs

- Criminology Outreach Program
- Community Scholars Program